

Will You Help Me?

(Numbers 32:6)

- Introduction:
1. The old folk-tale of “The Little Red Hen” contains a valuable moral lesson the church should remember.
  2. There are countless passages that teach that we must serve the Lord if we wish to partake of his blessings.
  3. In this lesson, I want to challenge you to step up your service to the Lord in 2020.

I. Family Expectations

- A. (Numbers 32:1-23).
- B. Moses had a misunderstanding with the tribes of Gad and Rueben.
- C. This misunderstanding led Moses to say, “Shall your brethren go to war while you sit here?” (Numbers 32:6).
- D. In other words, there are family expectations.
- E. Likewise, there are family expectations within the church.
  1. (Romans 12:4-8).
  2. (1 Corinthians 12:12-27).

II. Job Responsibilities

- A. (Leviticus).
- B. The sons of Levi were called to be priests of Israel, and as priests, they took on various jobs.
  1. They explained the law to the people.
  2. They administered the sacrifices of the people.
- C. Today, all Christians are to function as priests (1 Peter 2:9).

- Conclusion:
1. Friends, we have expectations to meet and work to do.
  2. We cannot be content to allow others to do all the work and we join in to take part in the reward.
  3. Let’s make this year a memorable year, in which we stop coasting, and invest ourselves in the work set before us.
